

2013 will see the Chamber investigate and implement a series of important organizational changes to help sustain the Chamber well into the future, and most importantly add value to our membership.

The Chamber Board is focused on fulfilling the GCCCC's mission to be the region's bridge to economic opportunities between US companies and the Chinese market place. To do so, we want to hear from our most valuable asset, our members.

As well, the Chamber Board will be stepping up recruiting of new members in the Tri-State to add to the regional and business-type diversity of the membership. Diversity is critical to building relevant collaborations and insight to improving business opportunities, both here in the Midwest, and in China. The Chamber will focus on strengthening relationships with regional chambers, international chambers, as well as trade organizations and agencies to improve our members' access to policies and best practices of all aspects of doing business in China, and with Chinese companies.

Lastly, we invite Chinese companies interested in expanding their business growth in the Midwest to join the Greater Cincinnati Chinese Chamber of Commerce as a means of building awareness of the business capabilities, but also make valuable connections with potential business partners. Our best opportunity to stimulate growth in our businesses is to foster improved collaboration between our members. Whether in the service, manufacturing, information, communication, or trade industries, the events facilitated by the GCCCC are designed to build relationships and create opportunity

Member Spotlight Kreller Group

Kreller is your one-stop shop for commercial credit, providing international and domestic credit reports as well as global asset recovery. Unrivaled in service, our three products are straightforward and thorough, requiring no contracts, fees, or usage penalties. Instead of stale databases, our International Credit Reports are fresh, derived from on-the-ground agents, local to the area of your investigation. Our agents know the language and understand the culture, giving them the ability to dig deep. Likewise, our Global Asset Recovery team also uses international debt collectors, providing our clients a fresh, ethical, culturally-aware approach to debt collections. Finally, our Kreller Risk Profiles have a fresh approach to credit. The fast, simple, cost-effective data gets to the point-avoid of excessive fluff. In these profiles, we share our risk formula, as we also empower our clients to customize it to fit with their own company's values and perspectives.

The word "fresh" isn't normally associated with credit services. Yet, since we produce the freshest results in the business information industry, using fresh insights and strategies, we honestly can't think of a better word to describe us. As a company's finances weigh in the hands of credit managers during this shaky global economy, they need raw, fresh, financial information to make sound decisions. And they need this information fast. At Kreller Credit, we believe that fresh information is the most critical information, and we aim to deliver it readily.
