ArborBridge, ChaseFuture Announce Global Partnership to Provide U.S. College Test Prep to China

Companies to bring more effective test prep approach to Chinese students looking to attend U.S. colleges.

(30 Hours) - Reading and Writing Programs provides students with a complete understanding of the reading and writing components of the SAT. Targeted lessons focus on students' 30-40 most significant reading and writing content weaknesses. This program is ideal for students who may speak English as a second language or who excel in math but struggle more on the verbal components of the exam.

3.Extended Program (60 Hours) - Extended Programs provide students with a complete understanding of all question types found on the SAT. Targeted lessons address all content areas as well as testing challenges such as timing and test anxiety. Ideal for students who need to see significant score increases or who struggle with standardized tests.

3More than ever, Chinese parents are looking to send their kids to American colleges but still lack smart, progressive and efficient test preparation that enables students to allocate their time appropriately across all parts of their college application. By working withChaseFuture, ArborBridge will be providing Chinese parents

American-style test prep and consulting that will prove much more beneficial when it comes to U.S college admissions,2 said Andrew Finn, Co-Founder of ArborBridge.

According to a recent report, the number of foreign students enrolled in U.S. colleges has grown by 72 percent since 1999, making international students an increasingly important part of U.S. higher education. In the 2012 academic year, the number of Chinese students in the U.S. reached 235,597, up 21.4 percent from the year before, according to the Institute of International Education. That makes China responsible for more than one in four foreign students on U.S. campuses, more than any other country.

3The right advice at the right time can be life-changing. China's families deserve ethical, efficient, and affordable test preparation and admissions consultation. ArborBridge and ChaseFuture's partnership provides the foundation for thousands of students to achieve their overseas education goals,2 said Greg Nance, CEO of ChaseFuture.
